

Vegas Desert Aftercare Checklist

What this is

Studio aftercare notes for healing a tattoo in dry Las Vegas conditions. Follow the instructions your artist gives you for your piece. This checklist repeats the desert aftercare guide on workofarttattoo.com.

Do this

Wash with clean hands, then pat dry. Gentle washing is enough.

Low humidity can make a fresh tattoo feel tight. Use a thin layer of product. More product is not always safer. Over-moisturizing can trap moisture and soften scabs.

Do not pick flakes. Let them release on their own.

Wear loose clothing. Keep tight straps and waistbands off fresh work.

Do not swim while the tattoo is open or peeling. Wait until the skin is fully closed and your artist clears soaking.

Do not put sunscreen on open healing skin. Keep it covered from the sun. Use SPF after it has healed.

Schedule the tattoo after pool-heavy plans, not before them. Pools, hot tubs, lake days, and long walks in direct sun are the Las Vegas issues most likely to disrupt healing.

Sweat, hotel sheets, and travel friction can irritate fresh skin.

Ask the artist when

Second skin lifts, leaks, or traps fluid.

The tattoo is rubbed raw by clothing or travel.

You are unsure whether dryness is normal.

You want a healed check before a touch-up.

When to contact a clinician

Contact a health care professional if redness spreads instead of improving, pain or swelling gets worse after the first few days, drainage becomes thick or foul-smelling, red streaks appear, or you develop fever or chills. Tattoo artists do not diagnose infections or skin disease.
